Andries Verspeeten's guiding questions

Questions for the early startup phase in case of bottom-up initiatives.

By Andries Verspeeten, Deputy Head of International Relations, University of Ghent, Belgium.

Why would you want this type of cooperation? (beyond the fact that there is a funding opportunity)

- To innovate your offer?
- For specific student recruitment aims?
- To rationalize by joining forces?
- For a combination of these and /or other reasons?

How well do you know your partners?

- What added value do you see in working with them? Do you share the same objectives? Expectations?
- Have you worked together with them before?
- Are you acquainted with their academic offer? Can you find accordance in learning outcomes?
- Would everybody be on board when considering this as a stand-alone new programme?
